

Dr. Diane Ravitch wrote that Public Education Partners (PEP) is the leading volunteer advocacy group for public education in Ohio.

PEP's mission is to preserve, protect, and strengthen Ohio's public schools. Public Education Partners is an integral part of education policy deliberations through legislative consultation, Statehouse testimony, and community forums, among other actions. Over 90% of Ohio's children attend public schools, and Ohio's public-school system is the largest employer in the state.

Public Education Partners is on social media:

The PEP Board is an entirely volunteer group comprised of:

- active and retired educators and administrators with a collective total of over 350 years of teaching experience in Ohio's public schools' urban, suburban and rural districts
- public school board members
- city council members
- parents and grandparents of Ohio Public School students
